

ABSTRACT

A miniature bullet camera connected via cabling means to a camcorder or other suitable recording device, powered by a battery pack, and camouflaged to blend in with a hunter's personal environment, via attachment to a hat or other article of clothing, sporting implement or accessory, utilizing either a clasp, a pin, sewing, gluing, or hook-and-loop fastener material. The present invention may be used by a hunter in pursuing game, where it would be possible to film the game and/or the pursuit thereof from a hidden location without drawing attention to the camera or the hunter himself.